

your wispy
faint and wispy
twists and twirls
of your hair

coming to me distantly inching closer, i want you closer right here besides me right here next to me please

i cant wait for your touch your hold, your warmth and sanctuary you next to me is all i could desire and to sleep, hands entangled though pillows opposite a time where I couldn't imagine your absence i cant imagine your absence, not entirely i never could, never have and never will because you are an imprint on my brain, a grafted piece of heart sewn into my own

a mind unto itself
a beauty in of itself, not needing anything but your visage to gawk at and an ethereal visage it is, such that it feels forbidden to look and to look away

you are a million dollars you are a future
you are a soul and a love, and i want your everything, what you are,

what you're not i need you
i need your everything

your anger and your pain your heart and your brain your love and attraction higher than any number or fraction i love you